Island & BC Wines

Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands are one part of the larger BC wine region, and are also referred to as the Wine Islands. Experimentation, individualism and youthful optimism are the hallmarks of the island winemakers who produce some of the most unique wines in the Pacific Northwest. Cool-climate grapes thrive in our microclimates and coastal terroir producing bright, crisp and fruit-forward wines. Some lesser known varietals excel here, such as Ortega, Marechal Foch and Auxxerois and are well worth exploring. For island winemakers the emphasis is on identity and not conformity.

Further east, the Okanagan Valley is the epicenter of BC wineries and vineyards, where fruit growing has been active for generations. You may notice that the wines have flavours that reflect 'terroir' from once-orchard vineyards. Peach, apricot, cherry and apple are common flavour descriptors for Okanagan wine.

The temperate nature of central BC has enabled winemakers to develop and produce some of the most interesting and well crafted of cool climate reds, such as Pinot Noir. Lately 'big' reds such as Shiraz, Cabernets and Bordeaux style blends have been consistently winning awards and gaining cult status. Although small by comparison to other wine regions, the southern Okanagan semi-desert terroir is producing serious, blockbuster wines worth collecting. Watch out for micro-appellations such as Black Sage Road, Naramata Bench and Cowichan Valley which possess unique strengths and qualities.

BC wines are always best enjoyed with fresh, local foods in the great outdoors!
